All-American Won By Last Year's Board of Editors

AWARDING OF the All-American honor rating to The Hatchet was revealed by the Associated Collegiate Press this week. The rated newspapers, covering issues from February through May last year, were edited by Don Balfour, Juanita Hall, and Anne Peterson. Under their leadership in the previous semester, the All-American rating which is the second highest rating awarded was gained also.

The Associated Collegiate Press, which analyzes and evaluates the work of school newspapers throughout America, commended The Hatchet editors on excellence in news coverage, vitality of writing, treatment of material, editing, including copyreading and proofreading, content, headlines, and typography. Style was rated as superior, with "color words for paragraph beginnings" particularly noteworthy.

Balance and variety, originality of style, organization, leads, features, makeup and sports coverage and treatment were also rated favorably by the journalism board.

This marks the tenth consecutive semester that The Hatchet has been given the All-American rating. All issues published during a semester are submitted to the newspaper critics, who are located at the University of Minnesota.

The newspapers are carefully considered and judged according to method of publication, type of school, enrollment of school and frequency of issue, and a report in the form of a scorebook is sent back with definite suggestions and criticism.

Administration Adds To Faculty; Two Members Quit

RESIGNATIONS were received by the Administration from Dr. George Horsley Smith, instructor in psychology, and Charles Edward Cooke, associate professor of civil engineering, last week. Dr. Cooke was expected to return to the University this semester after several years on war leave with the Sanitation Corps of the United States Army.

Heading the list of appointments was Colonel Wallace H. Graham, personal physician to President Truman, who joined the staff of the Medical School as professorial lecturer in surgery.

Colonel Graham graduated from Creighton University in Omaha, Nebraska, in 1936, and did post-graduate work in surgery at clinics in Berlin, Vienna, and Edinburgh. On active duty in the Army for four years he saw service in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

One of the scientists engaged in research on the release of atomic energy at Los Alamos, New Mexico, Dr. Charles Critchfield has been appointed associate professor of physics. He received his B. S. and M. A. from the University and his Ph.D. from Harvard.

Lemuel Allen Haslup and Jay Wesley Murphy joined the Law School faculty. A former Lt. Colonel in the Marine Corps where he was on duty in the Judge Advocate's Office of the Navy, Professor Haslup obtained his B. S. from the University of Maryland, his LL.B. from the University. He later taught at Stetson Law School, Deland, Florida, and at the University of Miami.

Dr. Murphy taught during last year's summer session while working as Senior Naval Research Analyst in the Office of Naval Intelligence. He obtained his A. B. (See ADMINISTRATION, Page 7)

University Marks 125th Anniversary

BY RAY GLASSCOCK
Feature Editor

ONE HUNDRED and twenty-five years ago Saturday, George Washington's dream of a university in the Nation's Capital came true with the granting by Congress of a charter to Columbian College, predecessor and still a part of The George Washington University.

Plans for the celebration of the 125th anniversary will be considered by the Alumni Association at its next meeting. President Chester W. Holmes recently stated. The events to be sponsored by the Alumni Association will be planned to fit in with the University's program, as yet undisclosed.

George Washington had urged throughout his public life that an institution of higher learning be founded in the District of Columbia, and in his will bequeathed fifty shares of stock in the Potomac Canal Company for the endowment of a university "to which the youth of fortune and talents might be sent for the completion of their education in all the branches of polite literature—in arts and sciences—and in acquiring knowledge in the principles of politics and good government." (sic.)

Although Congress took no action to carry out the provisions of Washington's will, and the Potomac Canal Company failed, rendering the stock worthless, a movement was started by private individuals to establish here an institution for the education of the Baptist ministry, which would offer general collegiate training.

Congress refused to grant a charter because of the sectarian character of the petition, and eventually the petitioners requested a charter for a non-sectarian college, which they called the "Columbian Society for literary purposes," so that Washington's and Jefferson's aspirations for a university here might be realized.

It was upon this petition that Congress granted a charter on February 9, 1821, for the establishment of Columbian College, one of the earliest non-sectarian universities in the United States.

The University has occupied several sites—first, at Florida Avenue and 14th Street; then the entire school was moved to 13th and H (See UNIVERSITY, Page 7)

Buff 'n' Blue Dance Highlights Registration Week's Activities

HIGHLIGHTING THIS WEEK'S activities will be the Buff'n'Blue dance in the Student Club tomorrow night at 8:30 p. m. Co-director Dick Generelly has stated that varied entertainment and good music will be the order of the day.

The main point of the evening will come with the presentation of the Ernie Pyle Memorial Award to a member of The Hatchet staff. This award will be given for outstanding journalistic work on The Hatchet by the Washington City Rho Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon in memory of Ernie Pyle, one of their members.

The award will consist of a gold key, presented to the outstanding Hatchet worker, and a plaque which will bear the names of the winners of the award. The plaque will remain in The Hatchet office. The winner is to be chosen by his fellow workers, and a key will be presented at the end of each fall semester.

HEY, TOOTERS—Dick Mann and Lee Harrow spent registration signing up Jim Hamilton and others for the University band. Any interested musicians should see accompanying article for details.

Musicians Register to Play In Revived Orchestra, Band

SIXTY-FIVE MUSICIANS signed up as members of the University band during this semester's registration in efforts to revive the organization. First performance will be as pit orchestra for Cue 'n' Curtain's March production, "Of Thee I Sing."

Director Leon Brusiloff, formerly a Major in the United States

Marine Corps, stated that it is evident that there is sufficient material in the University to provide marching, concert, and symphonic bands, as well as a pit orchestra and dance band. Mr. Brusiloff will be director of all units.

Already signed for the group are ten clarinets, seven trombones, five French horns, three flutes, two oboes, one bassoon, 14 trumpets, and 12 strings. There is still a need for more reed, string and bass players.

Wherever possible the University will furnish instruments for those who wish to participate. Experience of the members runs from one to 15 years, the average being seven years.

Anyone who wishes either to sign up or to obtain information about the band should contact either Lee Harrow, Franklin 6231, or Dick Mann, Lincoln 7282.

A practice schedule is being planned this week, and posters announcing practice dates will be exhibited in the Student Club.

During the three days of registration, Dick Mann handled the registration at the booth maintained by the band group in Hall of Government, Room 101 as pictured above.

Student Council Sponsors Dance; Obtains Rooms

SPECIAL MEETING of Student Council on January 30 resulted in the definite decision to sponsor the big name band dance, in the Shoreham Hotel ballroom on March 2.

Plans for the dance are now under way, with endeavors being made to keep the ticket price at a minimum. A tentative rate has been set by the Council which is considerably lower than the prevailing rates at other local universities.

All University students are welcome to attend Student Council meetings held weekly. Wednesday night at 8 p. m. on the second floor of Columbian House has been definitely established for these meetings. President Margaret Lynn announced.

Because of irregular time and place appointments for past Council meetings, it has been difficult to inform the student body of impending meetings. Now that this matter has been definitely fixed, all students are invited to attend whenever possible, she concluded.

Margaret Lynn succeeded to the presidency of the Council last week upon the resignation of Anne Peterson who was married last December. Appointed to fill the vacancy caused in the position of vice-president was Felicia Miller, editor of The Cherry Tree. Polly Peterson, activities director, also resigned because she was leaving school. That position has not as yet been filled.

Panhel Sponsors Weekly Program

IN ITS PROGRAM to help students get acquainted with each other and with the faculty, Panhellenic Council will hold open house every Friday afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30. Purpose of the open house is to give all students, Greek and independent, a permanent place to meet and get to know each other. President Agnes Smith revealed.

The first gathering will be held in the lounge of Strong Hall, with President Cloyd Heck Marvin and the entire faculty attending. Panhellenic members will act as hostesses.

All subsequent open houses will be held in Columbian House, with the faculty of different schools of the University—to be introduced at each gathering.

Counselor Announces Increases

Ex-GI's Number Sixteen Hundred; Reschedule Classes

WITH THE NUMBER of veterans totaling four times that of the previous semester, the University now has enrolled approximately 1600. Dr. Mitchell Dreese, director of the Veteran's Administration, announced.

Another 200 veterans are expected to enroll during the period of late registration, which ends February 15. Dr. Dreese continued. Final figures giving total University enrollment will not be available until the close of the semester.

Supplementary corrections to schedule of classes for the winter term have been issued by the Registrar's office. Due to the large enrollment this semester, many classes have had to be sectioned, being held both morning and afternoon.

Freshman Class To Hold Meeting

AT NOON ON Wednesday, February 13, the Freshman Class will meet in Room 101 of the Hall of Government for the presentation of the officers and to make plans for the year. President Diana Roosevelt revealed last week. The meeting will be an open one with opportunities for discussion available for all.

Appointments made by the class officers were also announced last week. Those recruited for service include Roberta (Robby) Lush as corresponding secretary; Howard Tickin as social chairman; Joan Rice as Student Council representative, and Rosemary Glenn as publicity director.

Calva "Ketty" Kephart and Norma Foust, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, will join the president on the platform during the meeting Wednesday. Treasurer Foust stated there would be no dues for the class since no class list has been prepared by the Registrar's office.

Among plans to be made at the meeting are those for the May Festival sponsored annually by the Freshman Class. Last year's festival was arranged like a carnival with booths for fortune telling, strong men, sword swallowers, etc. These were manned by the various sororities. The president stated that suggestions have been received for other types of class gatherings. These will be discussed at the meeting, she concluded, and urged all freshmen to come and bring more ideas.

Some Crying Needs

• PRESENT ENROLLMENT records show an overwhelming increase in full-time veteran registration. With "men" again taking over the life of the University the lack of suitable dormitories, eating places, recreational facilities, and lounges, tolerated during the past few years, takes on a new aspect.

As President Marvin recently stated, a new era has begun at the University. If this era, evidenced now by the increased enrollment, is to continue, facilities for the student body will have to be augmented.

The problem of the dorms was discussed in an earlier editorial entitled "Bedtime Story" and is being tackled now with regard to the new veterans' housing project. There has also been considerable discussion of a cafeteria for all students, of an enlarged student club with permanent dancing facilities, and of more lounges such as Columbian House.

The Administration insists that there is no space available. This is true in our present buildings. Furthermore it seems impossible to expect, at least for a couple of years, that the proposed Women's Activity Building (an inappropos name, incidentally, since the plans indicate more of a student union) will materialize. The obvious alternative is that we put up with what we have, or go off campus in search of suitable locations. Since the first is getting more and more impossible, The Hatchet did the latter.

Not far from here, within three minutes walking distance from the most distant University building, there is an old church, stripped of its clerical majesty by long years of disuse and its more recent war service as a recreation hall for the USO. Classed as a white elephant until the war provided a use for it, the building is now being considered by a local group for use as a night club.

Redecorated and remodeled by the USO, the building presents a very favorable appearance when viewed with an eye for use as a student union. Painted white outside and green inside it even falls conveniently within the University color scheme. On the second floor there is a large space for dancing, a stage, and a projection booth—an ideal set-up for Buff 'n' Blues, mixers, goat shows, and even movies when Lisner is unavailable or would seem to be too large. Since there is more than enough space for dancing, a snack bar could be installed with tables around the edge of the floor as at our Buff 'n' Blues.

As set up now, the first floor is a recreation hall with many tables for coke parties, card games, or Chinese checkers. Other advantages include an office for the manager and a tiny lounge with easy chairs and writing tables in the back. Heated by two furnaces, the building presents a very merry and cozy appearance.

With a snack bar (similar to that in the present

Student Club) and a dance floor upstairs and good material for a hot-food cafeteria downstairs, two of our problems would be temporarily solved. The third, and even a fourth previously unmentioned, would be indirectly improved. If the Student Club were removed from Building C, additional space would be available for club rooms by partitioning the large room into smaller units. Columbian House could then be relieved entirely of its duty of providing meeting space and be turned entirely into a lounge for relaxation day-dreaming, meditating, or the old-fashioned bull session.

All USO projects have been scheduled to close in the not-too-distant future. Since the building in question, which is within the limits of "the greater University," has very limited uses and was for many, many long years an idle hulk, some suitable arrangements surely could be made for its rental.

The building is always open and strangers are welcome. Walk in and look around—we did. At least this idea is a partial solution for what are and will continue to be constantly vexing problems that must be solved if our new student body isn't to be diverted into other channels of learning.

"Hail, Alma Mater"

• ON SATURDAY THE University will celebrate its one hundred twenty-fifth anniversary. Ever since February 9, 1821, when the charter of Columbian College was passed by the Congress of the United States and since renaming of the University in 1904, The George Washington University, has stood as a monument to a great man.

Founded in part upon the desires of "the Father of our country" and urged on its way by many prominent men including presidents, cabinet secretaries, congressmen, and other public figures, it has gone through many stages, had its ups and downs, been through good times and bad, but the years following its one hundredth birthday, it found a firm footing until today it stands on a firm foundation. Rapidly becoming one of the leading educational institutions in the country in all fields, not just the specialized ones of law and medicine which have ranked among the top for years, a definite trend is discernible pointing toward "the greater University."

Plans have been made, buildings sketched, and dreams dreamed to have outward manifestations of growth keep pace with the internal progress being made. Our campus will eventually extend from 19th Street to the river and F Street to the Avenue, President Marvin stated at the assembly last fall. Within the limits of this "greater University" will come dorms to house thousands of students, many, many more class rooms, an expanded library, gym facilities—everything to be proud of including something more than our "pocket-handkerchief campus."

The teaching staff, now, and in ages past has had very able men. At one time two justices of the Supreme Court were teaching in the law school. Now we have nationally known authorities in all fields including brain surgery, the Far East, patents, colonialism, medieval French, Hispanic America, and many more. These men and women are leading figures in their own fields. Their circle may be small compared to the popularity of political figures but they do rate.

Not many Universities have the distinction of 125 years behind them. Many of them that do cannot measure up to our record of famous alumni, nationally-known professors, and excellent ratings. But since it is fatal to live with an eye to the past or the present, what is more important still is the fact that none have more potentialities than those of which The George Washington University can boast.

The Chopping Block

• ONE OF THE GREAT EVILS of any large urban university is that with so many students living off-campus there is a decided lack of interest in student affairs and government. Here this is especially true, since many of the students work full-time taking only part-time courses and with school work added, they have little time for any extracurricular interests.

This situation is definitely unhealthy. We believe that it can be corrected and that it is the duty of the Student Council, the campus organizations, and the student body itself to do the job. Unfortunately, too many students fall into one of two categories—those that don't give a darn and those that say "I'd like to do something, but there isn't any way for me to do it."

To the first class we can lecture forever and get nowhere, but to the second group we say, "You are wrong. There is something that can be done." And the cure is very simple—merely air your objections and criticisms in the right place, at the right time, to the right people, often enough, and loud enough. Usually a change occurs. There are several places in which to voice your gripes: Letters to The Editors of The Hatchet, at Student Council meetings, or, in aggravated cases, even to the Student Life Committee. The Hatchet is always glad to receive letters to the Editors and President Lynn of the Student Council has just invited students to attend their meetings. True, the present Council office is not large enough for many visitors, but if the need arises, a larger meeting place could be arranged in Government and eventually if necessary, we are sure President Marvin would make Lisner Auditorium available.

Before we begin to yell 'SNAFU' all over the University, however, let us consider what the ills of the student body are—their causes, effects, and cures. They can be classed as (1) disinterest among the students; (2) lethargy in the Student Council and the class officers; and (3) lack of power or poorly defined power in the hands of the Student Council. We discussed point number one above and for the moment let's skip the Council and consider the class officers.

This is the first time that all classes have been organized and the officers still have to prove themselves. Their hands were tied until lately by the belated announcement of their election and the fact that since having officers for all classes is a new idea, they must feasibility of this plan, and it can be done if they feel their way slowly. It is up to them to prove the really work. If the number of voters is any criterion, however, they have a rough road ahead of them.

Next time we will consider some of the aspects of the Council's authority and power or lack of it and what can be done about it. N. H. H.

Inside Track On . . .

Irene Martin

• WHEN YOU SEE an attractive dark-haired lassie racing across campus with an armful of books and a kelly green leotard, it's probably Irene Martin hurrying to catch the Toonerville Trolley to Herndon, Virginia, where she lives.

As president of Orchesis this year, Irene supervises all the activities undertaken by the modern dance group and aids Miss Burner in planning the annual spring recital. Her interest in dancing began with membership in Junior Dance in her freshman year and last year Irene appeared in the Orchesis recital as the lead in the "Primitive Dance." Constant pleading for money in her capacity as treasurer of Delta Zeta sorority takes up a good deal of her time too, and she is also a member of the Executive Board of W. A. A., Activities Council of the Student Council, and Big Sisters. Some of Irene's past activities include participation in student politics, membership in Cogs, and assistant social chairman of Delta Zeta.

Ikey, as she is called by her friends, was born in Washington in 1925 and attended Eastern High School here. She deserted the city for the wilds of Herndon, Virginia, when her family moved there recently. Friends are always teasing her about living in the country, and the Toonerville Trolley which makes the trip only twice a day.

Witty, friendly, and typically American looking, Ikey likes chocolate ice cream and bridge; her greatest dislike is coming out of a movie at night to hear newspaper boys screaming the morning headlines—it makes her feel as though it were early in the morning.

Poll Shows Enthusiasm For Ruling

Revision Provides New Point System, Limit in Activities

By BILL CARROLL
 • STUDENT COUNCIL last June approved article seven of the revised constitution providing for a system of major and minor activities. The plan will go into effect in June, 1946, and under it a student may hold only one of the following positions: Editor of the Cherry Tree or The Hatchet, president of Cue 'n' Curtain, WAA or Pan Hellenic; business manager of Cue 'n' Curtain, Orchestra, Cherry Tree or The Hatchet, and all Student Council positions (not including representatives from the various schools).

In addition, a student may hold two minor offices which include presidencies of all other organizations, treasurers and social and professional fraternities, sub-editorial board of The Hatchet, associate editor of the Cherry Tree, circulation manager of the publications, advertising manager of The Hatchet, and the Council appointments to Buff and Blue, Book Exchange, COGS and the Drives Committee.

This week The Hatchet poll was conducted among the University students to determine their reaction to this plan.

Peggy Hollman, Junior: "I think this is an excellent plan because it divides the activities more evenly among the student body and makes it easier for qualified students to work up to the various offices and it prevents students from jeopardizing their studies by holding too many offices."

Jim O'Brien, Sophomore: "I'm all for it. A student who has to devote time to more than one office cannot spend the required hours necessary to the proper administration of either. I am even against holding a minor office with a major one and I believe that this plan will promote better school government and will influence the student holding a single office to work harder."

Dale Harwood, Freshman: "I don't believe that a person should be restricted in the number of offices providing he is capable of holding more than one, and if so then I say more power to him. I admit that in a lot of cases restriction might prove beneficial as it gives a greater number of people a chance to hold a major office but this should be left up to individual ability."

Mary Ann Edge, Senior: "In the first place I think individuals who are capable of holding more than one major office should be allowed to do so and if one person can hold two or three offices and still keep up his (or her) grades then I believe they are entitled to do so, providing there aren't others."

Dreese, Marvin, Ben Tufts Address Veterans Meeting

• SPEAKING BEFORE a crowd of several hundred at the veterans' meeting last night in the Hall of Government, Mr. Ben L. Tufts of the Veterans' Administration, explained the delay in sending out certificates of eligibility to the new veterans.

Twelve hundred of these men have been permitted to enter the University without any papers to cover their tuition expenses. Applications have been made by the hundreds but no word has been received on many of them.

The University, ready to cooperate to the fullest extent, has allowed these veterans to register and attend classes before their papers have been received.

Both President Cloyd H. Marvin and Dr. Mitchell Dreese, director of the Veterans' Bureau at the University, gave a short welcome. Dr. Dreese explained the veterans' program and expressed his appreciation for the grand response made by the men.

He said that the registration lines were long but the boys were good sports and mentioned over-hearing one vet remark, "These lines are just like the chow lines in the army."

Members of the club presented a five-minute skit showing the trials and tribulations of the incoming veterans.

Economists, Help!

• MANY STUDENTS will be without texts in the Introductory Economics courses. Dr. Donald Watson, executive officer of the department said last night, unless former students turn their copies of Gemmell and Blodgett's Principles of Economics over to the Book Exchange for resale. The book is now out of print and stocks are exhausted.

Army Cites Dr. Dreese On War Work

• DIRECTOR OF veterans' educational bureau, Dr. Mitchell Dreese, has recently been commended by the Secretary of War. He was cited for his work as chief of the Demobilization Procedure Center Headquarters in Washington.

Dr. Dreese entered the army as a 1st lieutenant and attended officers' training school at Orlando Beach, Fla. He later received the rank of a major and held this position during his work with the separation center.

In carrying out his duties he showed "a wideness of vision in planning and executing the proceedings of the separation classification program." He handled the job with "such speed and efficiency" that he was awarded the Army Commendation ribbon.

Formerly Dr. Dreese served as head of the psychology department at the University after receiving his degree at Columbia University. He came here in 1931.

Appointed head of the summer school division he now is the director of the veterans' bureau. He says his only "gripe" is that he doesn't have time to teach.

He has associated with hundreds of men while they were in the army, he said, and now is on the other side of the fence counseling with them in an effort to solve their many and varied problems.

tempt to stimulate standardization among school papers. It provides an opportunity for schools to improve the quality of newspapers and furnishes helpful suggestions to the staffs. Advertising, business problems, and circulation of the paper is not considered in the judging.

Ratings are not dealt with in terms of perfection but rather in terms of accomplishment. Score is determined by the numerical value of achievement and comparison with other papers in the same category. The majority of remarks and comments are intended to be constructive. Special problems are enumerated and explained.

Don Balfour, who was a senior while editor of The Hatchet, was graduated from the University last May. In her sophomore year while editing the paper, Juanita Hall is now serving the Student Council as secretary. The third member of last year's Board of Editors, Anne Peterson, recently resigned from her position of Student Council president to join her husband, a law student at Boston University.

Professional Group Initiates 7 Men At Ceremonies

• DELTA PHI EPSILON, honorary foreign service fraternity, held initiation for seven men last Sunday in Columbian House, announced Bill Long, president.

Initiates were: William Deitz, Edward Pauley, Theodore Roumel, Capt. Troy Price, William Hardy, William O'Conner, and Lt. Gene MacMahon.

Following the initiation, a banquet was held at the Hamilton Hotel. Present at the banquet were faculty members Drs. John Donaldson, and A. Curtis Wilgus and Professor Alan T. Deibert.

The banquet, given for the new members, was also in honor of Founders Day of the fraternity.

Delta Phi Epsilon, founded at Georgetown University in 1920, was the first national professional foreign service and foreign commerce fraternity in the United States.

Latch Speaks Friday

• CHAPEL SPEAKER for tomorrow will be the Reverend Edward Gardiner Latch, pastor of the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church. Chapel is held weekly in Columbian House, first floor at 12:10 p.m. All students are invited, chairman Anne Thaler stated and urged that no matter what their religion they will be welcomed.

Edwin Yocum Writes Book, 'Plant Growth'

• DR. L. EDWIN Yocum, professor of botany, has written a new book entitled "Plant Growth," published last August by the Jaques Cattell Press, Lancaster, Pa.

"Plant Growth" was written in an attempt to bring together knowledge necessary to answer the many technical questions which the plant lover may ask about growing plants. It is an attempt to make clear the "how and why" of plant growth. Professor Yocum said.

Special features of the book are the profuse illustrations which former University students Jane Roller and Marian Manning helped prepare.

Although containing many historical facts, the book also includes the newer theories in plant culture, among which is hydroponics, the study of plants growing in liquids. At the end of each chapter are references and at the end of the book there is a glossary.

Dr. Yocum is planning to teach a new course in plant growth next summer, and feels that his new book will be of use to students in the study of Applied Botany.

ISS Holds Party

• INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS SOCIETY will have a game party February 12 at the International House on G Street between 20th and 21st Streets at 8:30 p.m. All students interested in the group are invited to attend.

New Policy To Admit Alcoholics

Hospital Handles Psychiatric Cases, Dr. Bloedorn States

• WHEN THE new University Hospital opens early next year, alcoholic and mental patients will be admitted as general cases, a policy which has never before been followed, Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, Dean of the School of Medicine, announced last week.

Top floor of the six-story structure, which will be devoted completely to treatment of psychiatric and neurological cases, will contain the most modern shock and water treatments available, other recognized therapy, and 52 beds, divided equally between the two types of patients.

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital and psychiatric director of the new hospital, stated that "the person being treated is a whole person and not an assemblage of parts." The new policy to be followed by the hospital is based on the principle set forth in Dr. Overholser's statement.

Both doctors emphasized that psychiatry is "a branch of medicine and not merely a separate field" to be branded by isolation or commitment to mental institutions. They further stated that many patients who suffer from mental upsets of a transitory nature would be cured more quickly if treated as general hospital cases.

With the establishment of this new policy, the University hospital will be the only known general one within 100 miles and one of a score in the country, that combines psychiatric treatment with other illnesses.

Explaining the advantages of the procedure, Dr. Overholser said it is a forward-looking step and a distinct service to the community to answer a pressing need for this type of hospital care.

"A good many cases that come to the hospital on physical complaints have mental and emotional concomitants and a hospital which has at hand the necessary facilities for treatment of these disorders, as well as physical maladies, offers a decided advantage to the patient," he said. Dr. Overholser also pointed out that some general hospital patients have physical complaints that are really mental disorders and these persons will get the needed psychiatric treatment.

Book Exchange Business Prospers, Wants Textbooks

• NEW SYSTEM of cash and carry is working out nicely at the Student Book Exchange, according to Joe Holtzman, Comptroller of the Student Council. Approximately $500 worth of books have been sold. Because of a shortage of text books, the Exchange has been "swamped" with customers and many have been turned away, he said.

Comptroller Holtzman asked students who have had books at the exchange for some time not to inquire about old accounts this week. Many of these books have been sold, and the Exchange will be open next Monday and Tuesday exclusively for paying off all debts.

Books are still urgently needed! Especially wanted are: business administration; Accounting, 2nd Edition, by Owens and Kennedy; economics; Principles and Problems, by Gemmell; Economics of Money, Credit, Banking, by James; Monetary Theory, by Chandler.

Psychology: Psychology, 4th Edition, by Woodworth; Experimental Foundation of General Psychology, by Valentine; Physiological Psychology, by Morgan. English: Understanding Fiction, by Brooks, Warren; Introduction to American Literature, 2nd Edition, by Ellis. Mathematics: Analytical Geometry, by Patterson. Engineering: all kinds, civil, electrical, mechanical, are needed.

Not only the books mentioned above but all text books are needed at the Exchange, and all students are asked by the directors to turn in their used books.

The Exchange will be open today and tomorrow from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. for buying and selling books.

Professor Studies In London, Paris, Grenoble, Madison

By NANCY HANCK
 News Editor

• ONE OF THE most active members of the faculty is Dr. Lowell Ragatz, professor of European history. Known to all students through his work with history, he has many friends among the student body who like him for his friendly smile, keen humor and deep interest in their problems. Keenest of his admirers are The Hatchet staff, who can always find an interesting article on his travels and lectures.

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin (B.A. '20, M.A. '21, Ph.D. '25), Dr. Ragatz came to the University in 1924 and has been with the history department since that time. While in college he first developed his interest in journalism, serving on the staff and eventually

In addition to this ponderous list of activities, he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Gamma Mu, social science honorary. He is also a member of Pi-Delta Epsilon, journalism honorary, and Omicron Delta Kappa.

After receiving his Master's, Dr. Ragatz spent a year as a teaching fellow at the University of Pennsylvania and then went to Europe. There he studied at the University of Grenoble, College of France, the Sorbonne, and the School of Political Science in Paris, where he

Dramatists Schedule Zany March Comedy

• CUE AND CURTAIN will present the musical comedy "Of Thee I Sing" as its third production of the season on Friday and Saturday evenings, March 8 and 9, Floyd Sparks, director, announced last week. Music for the show was composed by George Gershwin, lyrics by Ira Gershwin and book by George Kaufman and Morris Riskind.

Tryouts for the musical were held last Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday in Lisner Auditorium, but no announcement of the final cast was made.

First produced on Broadway in 1931 and 1932, just before the Roosevelt Administration, "Of Thee I Sing" is a political satire. In the original cast William Gaxton and Victor Moore starred in the leading male roles of Wintergreen and Alexander Throttlebottoms.

The presentation, which approaches an operetta, is sprinkled with humor. Wintergreen becomes candidate for president with an engaging platform of love, while Throttlebottoms supplies the chief comic relief. Mary Turner, who becomes the wife of the successful candidate, and Diana Deveraux are the leading female roles in the show.

"Of Thee I Sing," first produced by Samuel Harris, has achieved tremendous success and received the Pulitzer Prize award.

The show is filled with music. Familiar tunes included in the production are "Wintergreen for President," "Because, Because," "Love Is Sweeping the Country," "What Do I Care?" and the title song, "Of Thee I Sing." An estimated cast of 120 is planned.

Plan Program

BARBARA STELLWAGEN

• MISS ELIZABETH Osborne, representative of the Dorothy Gray Cosmetics Company, will be guest speaker at a Big Sisters tea in the living room of Strong Hall, at 4 o'clock, February 28, President Barbara Stellwagen announced.

The subject of Miss Osborne's talk will be "Impressions We Leave." She has travelled widely in the United States, talking to numerous organizations on personality, good grooming, and first impressions.

During the tea, the nominating committee will present a slate of new officers. President Stellwagen stated. This committee is composed of Margaret Lynn, Ruth Minnick, Agnes Smith, Dot Snyder, and Barbara Stellwagen.

All Big and Little Sisters, and any new women on campus are urged to attend the luncheon to be held today at 12 noon on the roof of Strong Hall. The assignment of Big Sisters for existing and new Little Sisters, not heretofore assigned, will take place at this time.

The main purpose of the luncheon is to acquaint the Little Sisters and new women, transfers and beginners, with Big Sisters and campus activities.

• ONE DAY NOT long ago Herb Halberstadt strolled up the stairs to the second floor of Building M (the new Hatchet office) to be confronted by a very strange sight. Half in and half out of the transom over the "city-room" door was blonde, petite Barbara Boror, organization editor of the Cherry Tree. She was on her way into the locked room to use the phone. Brave Reporter Hears Report Of Groundhog

BY JEANNETTE RAYNER

• ANY STUDENT who happened to be around the back of the Library last Saturday might have noticed a shivering figure standing forlornly under the flagpole. It was your reporter waiting for the scheduled appearance of that elusive weatherman, Rufus F. (for February) Groundhog.

Having heard the rumors of his promptness and accurateness in determining whether we shiver or melt for the next six weeks, we were waiting with paper and pencil not wanting to miss a word of the momentous utterance.

At noon there was a mighty earth tremor, a dead silence, and then, from under a rose bush, two brown mustaches appeared.

Wiggling slightly in a delightful "foggy bottoms" breeze, followed by the equally wiggling (or should I say shivering?) nose and face of Mr. Groundhog.

Timidly I approached but before the fatal question was formed, there was a low snarl, followed by "gfcxzdxczx," quote and unquote, and Rufus, as we who know him well call him, disappeared.

Anyone who wants the utterance clarified is being referred to Mr. Groundhog, c/o the 3rd flower bed, the "campus."

P. S. Anyone having a dictionary (unabridged) of the latest groundhog slang, please leave it at The Hatchet office.

Do you all know how important our University is? At one time Congress interrupted its debate on the Missouri Compromise, one of the most famous documents in American history, to discuss granting a charter for what later became The George Washington University.

Kippy Wallace slipped into the Kappa Kappa Gamma receiving line during Open House last Sunday. President Elaine Smith turned around and subconsciously began to introduce her to an incoming group of girls. "And this is Kippy Wal—" She stopped, looked her up and down, moved her out of the line and into the corner, meanwhile smiling sweetly at the rushees and explained confidentially: "She's the Kappa we're ashamed of." Kippy's an ADPI.

One morning Professor Howard walked into Dean Doyle's Spanish class, looked around, and said, "Is this my class?" He then pulled out his watch. "My, my, ten o'clock. I have a class somewhere this hour. Or am I an hour late? What a surprise!" He then turned around and walked out. He had a large Freshman English section in the same room the hour before! Absent-minded?

Does Dr. Wilgus still open his lectures with "My name is 'Wilgus' but I answer to anything from 'Will-gas' to 'Wild-geese'?"

Fraternity Council Sets February 14 As Balloting Date

• INTERFRATERNITY Council Rush Rules enacted for the present rush season are running according to plans, Treasurer Clifford Carlstedt announced.

This year marks the first time rush rules have been applied to fraternities on campus in February in the history of the Council.

The new rules are the same as those used this past fall. On campus rushing begins the 29th of January and continues through February 1. Off campus rushing begins February 2 and lasts through midnight Sunday, February 10, after which time it is restricted to rushing on campus again until Thursday, February 14.

The date for balloting has been definitely set for February 14, on the second floor of Columbian House. Each rush man will vote for the first three fraternities of his choice in order of preference.

Between the 14th and the 17th only these three fraternities may rush him, and no one of them may pledge him before noon, the 17th.

Each fraternity will be giving individual parties, and Treasurer Carlstedt urges all rushees to attend the different parties.

Another feature of rushing this semester will be the restriction of each fraternity to four rush parties given out of chapter funds.

All tickets purchased for the dance, whether at the door or from members of the Engineers Council on campus, will be numbered. During intermission, Master of Ceremonies Dan Andrick, also president of the Council, will choose an individual present to draw the lucky ticket from a hat. The prize has not yet been disclosed.

Council Announces Awards At Prom

• ANNOUNCEMENT of interfraternity athletics winners will be made at the Annual Interfraternity Prom to be held on February 19, from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. in the Continental Room of the Wardman Park Hotel, Chairman Dick Gherally announced.

Every active fraternity member is obliged, and pledges urged, to buy a ticket for the dance, the price of which is $3.60 stag or drag. Non-fraternity members wishing to attend the dance, should contact fraternity members who wish to sell their tickets.

During intermission, announcement will be made of the winners of last year's interfraternity athletic contests. Cups will be awarded for skill in football, basketball, baseball, bowling and pingpong.

With music supplied by the Alaskans, soft drinks and set-ups provided, this dance promises to be one of the outstanding fraternity events of the year, Chairman Gherally stated.

Colonials Defeat Indians 65-51 in High-Point Bout

• FIRST SOUTHERN CONFERENCE win of the season was turned in by the Colonial quintet in their 65-51 defeat of William and Mary last Monday night at Tech High gym. This was a return game for the two teams, William and Mary taking the earlier contest by four points, 45-39.

Barry Kriesberg of the Buff and Blue was high-point man with 22 points. He came through with eight free throw shots and seven field goals. John Moffatt, a newcomer to the team during the past week, ran a close second with 15 points. All 13 of the Colonials saw action in this exciting contest. Magdziak led the visiting squad with 16 points scored through the hoop, but the William and Mary Indians never could overtake the game and fighting Colonials after they got off to an early lead.

George Washington, 65; William and Mary, 51.

Last Saturday evening a Maryland quintet handed the University five a 48-35 defeat at Ritchie Coliseum on the University of Maryland's campus.

However, the Zahnmen played a good game throughout the contest and had complete control of the ball during the opening minutes of play. After a bitterly fought battle with the score see-sawing back and forth between the two clubs, Maryland was out in front, 22-19, at half time. Ollie Kennedy sparked the Colonials in this period with 6 points, and Turyn led the Maryland quintet.

The second half started out as a close contest with Maryland only 4 points in the lead up to the last ten minutes of the game when the Terrapins pulled ahead, sparked by point-earning plays by Gleasner, Brown and Edwards. Barry Kriesberg led the Buff and Blue during this period.

Kriesberg was high scorer with 11 points, followed by Turyn and Brown of Maryland with 10 points each.

In a very rough and mishandled game, the Virginia Cavaliers swamped the Buff and Blue five, 67-35, last Friday night.

Virginia, using a fast-breaking offense, completely outplayed the Colonials after the first few minutes of the game. Every man on the Cavaliers' team scored, Pendak being high scorer with 11 points.

Undoubtedly, this is the best team the Colonials have met all season, and they may be thankful that it was not a Conference game, as Virginia is not a member of the Southern Conference League.

Himes, president, reported. A native and resident of McLean, Virginia, Mr. Busick has just returned to inactive status as a Lieutenant in the United States Naval Reserve. On active duty for 31 months, he was for eighteen months an Armed Guard officer aboard troop and cargo ships serving in all theaters of the war.

In addition to his work in athletics, just prior to entering the service, Mr. Busick was formerly director of public relations and editor of the alumni magazine at the University. He is a graduate of the University and of Western High School and was a member of the staff of the Washington Daily News for two years before taking up his position as public relations officer.

During the war he has been working on the "Return of Sports" program with Commander Max Farrington, who has been sports adviser to Cloyd Heck Marvin, President of the University.

• STUDENTS ARE invited to attend the Student Council meetings held regularly each Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. in the Student Council rooms, second floor Columbian House, President Margaret Lynn stated. Complaints or suggestions will be received at all times.

it was apparent that the group had not practiced together long enough, and they were no match for the Cavaliers.

Zahnmen gave a better accounting in the next two games and were beginning to show their true form in the contest with William and Mary. Judging by their excellent floor work they should prove a real threat in all future games, emerging victorious from many of them.

In The Locker Room With Barnes

Chet McCall... captain of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School quintet of last year, Chet has been handicapped by playing a new defensive type of basketball. He does not shoot much, being more of a team player. In high school he attained a very brilliant scholastic record, as well as being outstanding in activities. He is here on a scholarship.

Pete Labukas... former Varsity football quarterback, this is Pete's first year on the basketball squad. He returned to school in September after being in the Air Corps for two years. Pete is one of the most popular players on the team not only among the squad but also with the fans. He is a Physical Education Major and plans to continue in this field.

New Players

Barry Kreisberg... Barry is a senior in school who has been unable to play until now because of a difficulty in arranging his schedule. He is from Brooklyn where he played ball for Madison High. A high scorer, he is equally effective on set shots as well as under the basket.

Hymie Perlo... After two years in the Paratroopers, Hymie has just returned to school. He is the only high school ballplayer in the past ten years to make the District's All High Team for three straight years. While playing with Roosevelt High in the Duke Tournament in 1942, he was selected the outstanding player of the tournament. Hymie is tops both as a team player and as an individual star in his own right.

Ollie Kennedy... Hustle, hustle, hustle—that could best describe Ollie. He has a fine set shot, but is more effective under the basket. He attended Roosevelt High, and served as a tall gunner in the Army Air Corps during the war.

John Moffatt... Tall and lanky, John is going to give the club a great advantage in getting the ball from the backboards. For the past two years he was on Tech High's Championship Team, and in his senior year he was Captain, and also selected on the All High Club.

Jimmy Graham... To most Colonial fans, Jimmy needs no introduction, for he was an outstanding backfield star on the Buff and Blue's fast varsity football team. He has just returned from the service, and he is now a senior. Very fast and shifty, Jim is just again beginning to get into condition.

Lew Multz... An excellent set shot, as well as being an all around good offensive player, Lew should prove a valuable addition to the team. He is as yet untested in college competition, but with a little experience he should become a high scorer.

After a game tomorrow night with V. M. I. at Lexington the Colonials next encounter will be with Georgetown, Tuesday at 8:30, and from all indications it should prove a replica of the first game which the Zahnmen won 45-43. This will be the Colonials home game and will be played at Tech High Gymnasium.

Names of individuals and team members must be turned in to Mr. Meyers not later than February 25.

Law School Features Lecture In Auditorium

• WITH SIGNIFICANT DEVELOPMENTS in law during the past five years as a theme, the faculty of the University Law School will present a series of seven lectures in Lisner Auditorium on Monday evenings at 8:30 p.m., beginning February 25, Dean William C. Van Vleck announced this week.

Intended especially for lawyers and law students whose careers have been interrupted by the war, Dean Van Vleck said that they will point out recent significant trends in the law, and may contribute to a better understanding of legal institutions which must form the foundation for lasting peace.

The opening lecture on Administrative Law will be given by James Forrester Davison, Professor of Law now on war leave, on February 25. Contracts will be the subject of the lecture on March 4 to be given by John Albert McIntire, Associate Professor of Law on war leave.

The March 11 lecture on Constitutional Law will be given by Charles Sager Collier, Professor of Law, while International Law will be the subject of the talk by James Oliver Murdock, Professor of Law, on March 18. The Honorable Donald R. Richberg, co-author of the Railway Labor Act and other labor legislation, will speak on Labor Law in the March 25 lecture.

The April 1 lecture on Federal Anti-Trust Laws will be given by S. Chesterfield Oppenheim, Professor of Law; and the April 8 lecture on Conflict of Laws will be given by William G. Van Vleck, Dean of the Law School.

The lectures have been made possible by the generosity of Captain Harryman Dorsey, JAG, AUS, an alumnus of the University Law School. Tickets, which are complimentary, may be obtained by applying to the Law School Office, The George Washington University, Washington 6, D. C.

Streets, where the Medical School is now located, and finally, all schools except medicine, were moved to their present location.

First commencement exercises took place in 1824, and among the guests were President Monroe, John Quincy Adams, John Calhoun, Henry Clay, and the Marquis de Lafayette. Congress and the Supreme Court adjourned so that members might attend the commencement.

Recognition of the high standards of the University are evident by its approval by the Association of American Universities and the American Association of University Women, as well as being accredited in the individual schools by the particular accrediting bodies.

Dutch Drive Continues; Contributions Urged

• TOMORROW IS THE last day for contributing to the Dutch War Relief Drive, The Hatchet announced. All students are urged to take advantage of the extension of this drive and deposit donations and gifts in the boxes which have been placed in Building D, Student Club, Government, and the Law School.

The drive is being sponsored for two University alumni, Dr.

Eleanor Lippetts and Major Donald Sickler. The former is working for the Dutch Red Cross in Gennep and Hayden, where her classmate of 1937, Major Sickler, met her during the war.

Gennep and Hayden are border provinces of Holland and were completely devastated by air raids and subsequent occupations. Lack of housing facilities, hospital equipment, clothing and food, made the two areas utterly destitute, Major Sickler reported.

Dr. Lippetts asked Major Sickler to convey to the student body the necessity of relief for these people. Major Sickler stated that the occupants of Gennep and Hayden have had no thread or needles for three years; children cannot attend school because of lack of clothing; soap is so scarce that it may be used but once a week.

Paper, pens, canned food, knitting needles, darning cotton and many other items are needed. The hospital at which Dr. Lippetts works does not have a single fountain pen.

Acknowledgement by the recipients of your gifts will be sent if your name and address is attached to the article.

Harmon Hopes To Remodel Men's Club

• SHOULD THE MEN'S Glee Club revive sufficiently with the influx of men returning from the armed forces Dr. Robert Harmon, director, stated that he hoped to take it on a tour through nearby Maryland and Virginia.

A booth was maintained during registration where interested men could sign up for tryouts. Dave Bates, chairman, stated that tenors and bases, particularly the former, were badly needed.

Previously one of the best male musical organizations on the Eastern Seaboard, the men's glee club had dwindled from sixty members to sixteen, with present membership of twenty-four. Dr. Harmon said, "We were hard hit by the war. Now every effort is being made to build the club up to its pre-war strength in both quantity and quality."

COGS Needs Help; Plans For Initiation

• NEW GIRLS DESIRING to join COGS may do so by registering at 4 p.m. on Monday, February 11 and 18, in Building D, Room 103, according to Marcia Bartlett, co-director. Requirements necessary for joining COGS are interest in the group and a desire to help in its activities. Girls doing Nurses' Aide, Canteen work or similar services will receive points toward COGS membership.

COGS plans to continue with work done last semester at the home for the Disabled and at Friendship House. In great demand at present are girls who can play the piano, and who can teach indoor and outdoor games.

Members who earned their 30 points last semester will be initiated as soon as the new COGS keys arrive.

COGS, which was founded at the University as a wartime activity, is planning to continue as an organization during peacetime. Virginia Nalls, who was graduated last May, was the founder and first chairman of the group.
